Mentorship Resources for Oncology Nurse Educators

(06/18/2009)

By Yahaira Cespedes
IMER, North Miami, Florida

The following resources provide information on the role of mentorship in practice and how to establish and maintain a mutually beneficial relationship with a mentor or mentee.

Books

The Mentor Connection in Nursing \(Hardcover\)

ISBN-10: 0826111742
ISBN-13: 978-0826111746

By Connie Vance EdD, RN, FAAN, and Roberta Olson, PhD, RN (Editors)

This book explores the role mentoring plays in the practice setting, professional organizations, and with peers and groups. Edited by two pioneers in the field, it is an easily digestible and informative collection of mentoring essays from one hundred nursing scholars, practitioners, and students.

Mentoring in Nursing: A Dynamic and Collaborative Process \(Paperback\)

ISBN-10: 0826153852
ISBN-13: 978-0826153852

By Sheila C. Grossman

This book offers many ideas on empowerment within the field of nursing through mentoring. Key issues addressed include maintaining flexibility when working with others and fostering a mentoring spirit in which nurses are recognized for their acumen.

On the Web

Oncology Nursing Society Mentorship Program

The Oncology Nursing Society's Web-based mentoring process helps members determine whether a mentoring relationship is best for them. The site guides the mentee through assessing his/her development needs, finding a suitable mentor from a dynamic database, and creating a mentoring agreement.

The Mentoring of Nursing Faculty Toolkit

The Mentoring of Nursing Faculty Toolkit from the National League of Nursing is a valuable compilation of questions, online resources, and literary references. It serves as an excellent guide for those seeking a mentor or protegee. In addition, nurse educators may use the Toolkit to assist with the creation and evaluation of mentoring programs.

Partnership: Making the Most of Mentoring

Faculty: Linda H. Yoder, RN, MBA, PhD, AOCN®, FAAN

This online CE program is designed to help nurses recognize the components of an effective mentoring relationship. Upon completion of this activity, participants will be able to:

- Describe the characteristics of an effective mentoring partnership
- Identify the role and functions of a protegee in a mentoring relationship
- Evaluate a potential mentor's qualifications
