With the tornadoes, wildfires and flood disasters the United States is currently facing, many facilities and services have their hands full to capacity taking care of disaster victims. VCA Animal Hospitals have stepped up to lend a helping hand by offering free shelter to the pet companions of people affected by the wild weather in Alabama, Texas, and Georgia.

"For residents affected by the recent devastating events, VCA is working to assist them by providing free pet boarding so they can focus on the safety and welfare of their families and homes," said Art Antin, Chief Operating Officer of VCA Animal Hospitals.

In the following locations, free boarding is offered at participating hospitals based on availability. Check the provided local listings for information on free boarding:
